

SAMPLE DIGITAL MONITORING SYSTEMS

by Todd Bell

This tool provides an alphabetical list of some Web-based data systems used by state and local education agencies (SEAs and LEAs) and individual schools to monitor English learners' (ELs') placement and progress. The chart below briefly describes the general features of the systems and, if applicable, features specifically for ELs. Neither the National Clearinghouse for English Language Acquisition (NCELA) nor the U.S. Department of Education endorses any particular system, product, or program for data monitoring. Further, NCELA does not guarantee the timeliness or completeness of material included. Schools and LEAs should check their SEA's policies and federal guidance to ensure that particular features or systems would adequately assist with compliance.
