

ELA35 - 7a

Select a character from the folktale. Write a response/essay that shows how your character's traits impact the story. Use evidence from the folktale to support your understanding.

The wife was greedy by wanting everything. First, she asked for a cottage then she asked for a castle next she asked to be king then she asked to be emperor. Finally, she asked for the power of the sun and moon but instead of getting it she got the hat back. This trait impacts the story by the wife making the fisherman go to the fish and asking for what she wants, If this didn't happen the story would just be about the fisher man and his wife living in a hut and the fisherman going out to the seashore and trying to catch a fish.

ELA 35-7b

Educators determined that this student work sample was Proficient.

Evidence:

- identification of an accurate character trait
- clear explanation of how the chosen character's trait influenced the story's ending
- supporting evidence from the text (paraphrased)
- a clear topic sentence in the introduction
- logically organized ideas
- well-developed conclusion

ELA35-9a

Select a character from the folktale. Write a response/essay that shows how your character's traits impact the story. Use evidence from the folktale to support your understanding.

In	The	story	The
wife	is	bossy	I know
this	because	she orders
her	husband	to
go	to	a	magic
fish and	to	get	her
what	she	wants,	in the story	she	says	go to
that	fish	of	your
and	get	me	a castle!!
also	she	says	tell that

ELA 35-9b

fish I need control over The ~~man~~ and The Sun!! And I think The wife impacted The ~~story~~ because she was never content ~~in the~~ story
 she always wanted
 some thing! That is why I think The wife impacted
 The story and why she is bossy.

Educators determined that this student work sample was Proficient.

Evidence:

- identification of an accurate character trait
- clear explanation of how the chosen character's trait influenced the story's ending
- supporting evidence from the text (paraphrased)
- a clear topic sentence in the introduction
- logically organized ideas
- well-developed conclusion

ELA35-28a

Select a character from the folktale. Write a response/essay that shows how your character's traits impact the story. Use evidence from the folktale to support your understanding.

Alice's character traits affect the story. She is VERY greedy. When her husband caught a magical fish, she keeps asking for more and is never content. Page 4 & 5. Alice is also lazy. She never goes down to the fish herself. Pages 4, 6, 7, and 9. She is mean. She bullies the husband and says she is queen and the fisherman is only her husband page 6/7. The last character!

ELA 35-28b

trait of Alice is bossy.
She is always telling the husband to do something. She says "you MUST go at once" on page 7. Thank you for reading!

Educators determined that this student work sample is Developing.

Evidence:

- multiple accurate character traits are identified
- evidence is used to support each trait (paraphrased)
- logical organization
- need for connecting the character's traits and their influence on the story's ending
- an adequate introduction to the topic, but conclusion is not relevant to the prompt

LEADS OR

Select a character from the folktale. Write a response/essay that shows how your character's traits impact the story. Use evidence from the folktale to support your understanding.

I selected the fisherman's wife. One trait for the fisherman's wife is she is greedy. That impacted the story because if she wasn't greedy then the story would be super different. When I say super different I mean the whole story would change because if the wife wasn't greedy then the man wouldn't have to go to the fish and the fish wouldn't have to use ~~the fish~~ ~~magic~~.

ELA 35-8b

So that's why I think The fisherman's wife is greedy.

ELA 35-8b

Educators determined that this student work sample is Beginning.

Evidence:

- an ability to identify a character trait
- an introduction and conclusion
- lack of evidence to support the character's trait and its impact on the story