

Rhode Island Data Quality AwardV 2013

About the award:

The Rhode Island Data Quality Award is a program to honor the work of educators and administrators around the state. The collection and use of education data has exploded in the last few years. Districts leaders have seen roles and responsibilities around data quality, and data use expands at a faster rate than any other position in the education field. Staff have learned new skills, taken on more projects, and improved the quality of information used to make decisions about our students, and they have done so in a time of fiscal restraint and limited resources.

The Data Quality Award is our opportunity as a state to say thank you for the tremendous efforts of these educators and administrators. We are seeking candidates for the award who exemplify excellence or leadership in creating a culture of data quality leading to the use of better data for improving student outcomes.

Please submit your nomination using this form via email or web (we encourage you to save paper) between
V 15th and December 2nd, 2013.
